Useful Information

Visitors with disabilities:

We welcome visitors with disabilities to all our properties; we also welcome assistance dogs. Most properties have a good degree of access and we are committed to developing and promoting inclusive access solutions at our properties that are creative and sensitive to the surroundings.

This booklet is designed to be used in conjunction with the Members Handbook and provides more information about the accessibility of our properties. It is recommended that you telephone a property ahead of a visit to obtain any specific details concerning access which you might require. It may be advisable to visit on weekdays, when there are fewer visitors and access is easier.

Membership

Membership of the National Trust offers you free admission to over 300 historic houses, more than 180 gardens and most National Trust car parks. Also to properties owned by the National Trust for Scotland.

For further information regarding membership please contact our Membership Department (address and contact details on back cover)

You can also join the Trust at any National Trust property and staff will be pleased to advise you which category of membership is best for you. You may decide to sign a direct debit and gift aid declaration which will help us to minimise our administrative costs and maximise the value of your subscription.

Admission

Our admission policy admits the necessary companion of a disabled visitor free of charge on request, while the normal charge applies to the disabled visitor. An 'Admit One' card can be issued in this instance; please contact the Access for All Office (address on back cover) for further details or to request a card.

Occasionally, visitors may be accompanied by a very severely disabled child or adult. In such a case only the companion pays for entry, unless they are a member, in which case no charge is made for either person.

NB: Parking is free at most properties, but at some a charge applies to all drivers.

Powered Mobility Vehicles (PMVs): Self-drive and volunteer-driven powered vehicles are available at some larger gardens and parks. Details of the relevant properties and the vehicle types are in this booklet. It is advisable to phone the property beforehand to check the availability and to book the vehicle. Wherever possible, the Trust admits to its buildings users of powered wheelchairs and similar small vehicles. This is subject to the physical limitations of the individual building, and any other temporary constraints which may apply on the day. Please telephone the property in advance to check.

The Trust strongly discourages the use of your own self-drive three-wheeler vehicles, other pavement vehicles and powered wheelchairs at its outdoor properties because of the uneven and changing terrain.

Visitors with Visual impairments: The majority of our properties offer Braille and large print guides. We are also developing sensory information, which will offer our visitors the opportunity to experience our properties in a different way. This list might include particular sounds, scents, and items available to touch at the property and some properties have provided us with information to include in this booklet. Any features that are particularly recommended are indicated by the v symbol in individual property entries in this booklet and it is advisable to telephone in advance of a visit to check what is on offer.

All properties should be able to provide Braille guides, Brailled for us by volunteers. A free copy can be requested to read at home in advance of a visit. Many properties also provide large-print and tape guides; these are mentioned in the individual property entries of this booklet.

The Trust's members' magazine, published three times a year, is produced on tape by the Talking Newspaper Association and offered free of charge to Trust members with visual impairments. A growing number of our regional newsletters are also on tape. If you are a member, let us know if you would like to be added to our mailing list for these tapes.

All these publications, except individual Braille property guides, are available from the Membership Department. Please send us a note of the information you would like to receive, together with a self-addressed adhesive label and 50p stamp to help with dispatch costs.

E Visitors with Hearing impairment: Induction loops are becoming increasingly available at our properties and the sympathetic hearing scheme previously administered by Hearing Concern is still practised at our properties.

Assistance dogs: Although dogs are not admitted to Trust houses, and seldom to gardens and parks, assistance dogs are welcome, so long as they are in harness during their visit. Trainee assistance dogs and puppies are also welcome to many outdoor properties, but must be kept on harness under strict control; it is best to telephone the property if any doubt exists.

CAPD facilities: Suitable facilities for kidney patients using CAPD are available at a large number of properties; often the parent and baby room can be used. Please telephone properties ahead of a visit for details.

0 Cutlery in restaurants: Large-handled cutlery should be available at all Trust tea-rooms and restaurants. Please ask for this provision if you feel this would be of benefit.

Parking: Although many people have a blue badge it is not a necessary requirement for the use of our designated parking bays. At many properties disabled visitors can be dropped off at the main entrance.

Adapted WCs: Adapted cubicles are unisex unless otherwise stated.

RADAR NKS Lock: The Royal Association for Disability and Rehabilitation (RADAR) initiated the National Key Scheme to give disabled people access to adapted public lavatories, which might be subject to vandalism or other misuse if they were not kept locked. The Trust has adopted this idea at lavatories at several properties and RADAR locks are also used on some gated roads in our countryside properties to viewpoints or to the countryside where cars are not normally allowed. Details are given in the appropriate entries in this booklet.

Holiday cottages: Some holiday cottages have been adapted to suit a wide range of disabilities. Full descriptions and booking details for these are given in the brochure. Send a self-addressed adhesive label with £2 (towards production, packing and postage costs) to the Holiday Cottage Booking Office Tel: 0870 458 4411.

Links passes: This pass admits group visits by elderly and disabled people arranged by organisations affiliated to local government or disability charities. It allows half price admission for these groups to most Trust buildings and gardens, at times to be arranged in advance with the Property Managers. Please contact the Membership Department for further details or an application form.

Volunteers: Approximately 40,000 volunteers of all ages assist with the vital work of the Trust. This includes working to improve access for disabled visitors. The Trust enjoys the practical support of many people with disabilities and properties are keen to welcome offers of help and will discuss volunteering roles to take account of any access issues there might be at a property.

Internet: The National Trust's website is at www.nationaltrust.org.uk_It includes information about places to visit and much more besides.

This booklet is also available in large print. _A tape edition can be ordered, free from the Membership Department (see back cover). Sections of this booklet and the Members Handbook can be Brailled on request.

Coast & Countryside

The Trust manages about 250,000 hectares of countryside and great efforts are made to improve access to these beautiful places. Every property has something to offer visitors with disabilities, but the very nature of the landscape can sometimes make access difficult. The places listed below are a selection of sites where specific provision has been made for visitors with disabilities. Further details can be found in the Sensory List entries, the Handbook, on the website or by telephoning the property.

South West

In Cornwall there are accessible viewpoints at many coastal properties such as Bodigga Cliff near Looe, Nare Head and St Anthony Head. Estate walks at Lanhydrock, alongside the River Fowey, and at Godolphin are suitable for wheelchair users. In Devon the upgraded path from Salcombe Hill car park gives magnificent views over Sidmouth; Plym Bridge Woods has gates fitted with RADAR locks and a wheelchair-accessible fishing platform. There is access at Hartland Moor along Hartland Way to an adapted bird hide. In Dorset, a gentle slope gives easy access from the car park down to the shingle beach at Burton Bradstock; a summer boardwalk leads onto the beach at Studland, and Stonebarrow Hill at Golden Cap has marvellous views (and an adapted WC). Nearby Langdon Hill Wood has a circular forest route suitable for powered vehicles (access either via kissing-gates or gates with RADAR locks). Two easy access trails have been created on the Holnicote Estate in Somerset, at North Hill and at Webbers Post, offering fine views over moorland, woodland and coast. Leigh Woods in Bristol has an all-ability trail (see below). In the Cotswolds in Gloucestershire the viewpoint at Dover's Hill is wheelchair-accessible. From Haresfield Beacon there is access onto Short Wood via a wide access gate - superb views can be enjoyed from extensive grasslands.

South & South East

Particularly recommended are The Old Brick & Tile Works at Pinkney's Green, a nature reserve near Maidenhead with specially adapted paths and viewing platforms, and a tapping rail (access by radar key). St Helen's Duver, Isle of Wight has a level shingle walk suitable for accompanied wheelchair users, and an accessible holiday cottage.

London

Particularly recommended are the accessible paths through the rose garden and along the river at Morden Hall Park.

East of England

Wicken Fen, Sutton Hoo and Sheringham Park all have accessible pathways; Ickworth has a special scented walk.

East Midlands

Particularly recommended are Clumber Park, with excellent pathways and visitor facilities, and the Manifold track, which is suitable for wheelchair access.

West Midlands

The Brockhampton Estate has a nature trail with touchable sculptures. The trail may not suit all visitors, so please tel. the property for details.

North West

Wheelchair access to Tarn Hows, Friar's Crag at Derwentwater, White Moss Common at Grasmere, and at Claife, near Hawkshead, among many others. There is adapted holiday accommodation at Restharrow on the shores of Windermere and at Acorn Bank Garden (tel. 0870 458 4411 for details).

Yorkshire

Special arrangements can be made at Malham Tarn and Brimham Rocks for visitors with disabilities (tel. the properties for details).

North East

Newton Pool has a boarded walkway and adapted bird hide. Cragside has a lift to the first floor for visitors in wheelchairs. Wallington offers a leaflet showing the gradients of all its paths. Souter Lighthouse has a closed-circuit television and remote camera so that people unable to climb the lighthouse stairs can still enjoy the view from the top.

Wales

There is a wheelchair-accessible footpath to Gelert's Grave, and many excellent paths on the Stackpole Estate, including a lakeside route with two accessible bird hides and a level woodland route suitable for unaccompanied wheelchair users (tel. 01646 661359 for leaflet). Erddig Country Park at Felin Puleston offers good pathways, suitable for unaccompanied wheelchair users, leading through woodland along the River Clywedog; tel. 01978 355314 for details. At Dinefwr there is a boardwalk through Bog Wood to the lake. On the Gower peninsula at Rhossili an accessible path leads to the old coastguard lookout. Accessible picnic sites can be found on the Dolmelynlyn Estate at Ganllwyd, at Glan Faenol on the Menai Strait and at Porthdinllaen on Ll^yn. An accessible path leads to a viewing terrace and beach café at Porthor (Whistling Sands) on Ll^yn.

Northern Ireland

Murlough Nature Reserve offers a boarded walkway to the dunes and beach (strong pusher needed), with wheelchair and adapted WC available in summer; at the Giant's Causeway a bus service runs to the Causeway stones, equipped with a hoist for wheelchairs; there is also easy access to the shop and tea-room; at Carrick-a-Rede there is a special viewing platform for disabled visitors; a path of nearly a mile around Florence Court allows wheelchair access.
